h. FICA Maximum Approaching – Be notified when the FICA max withholding has been reached.

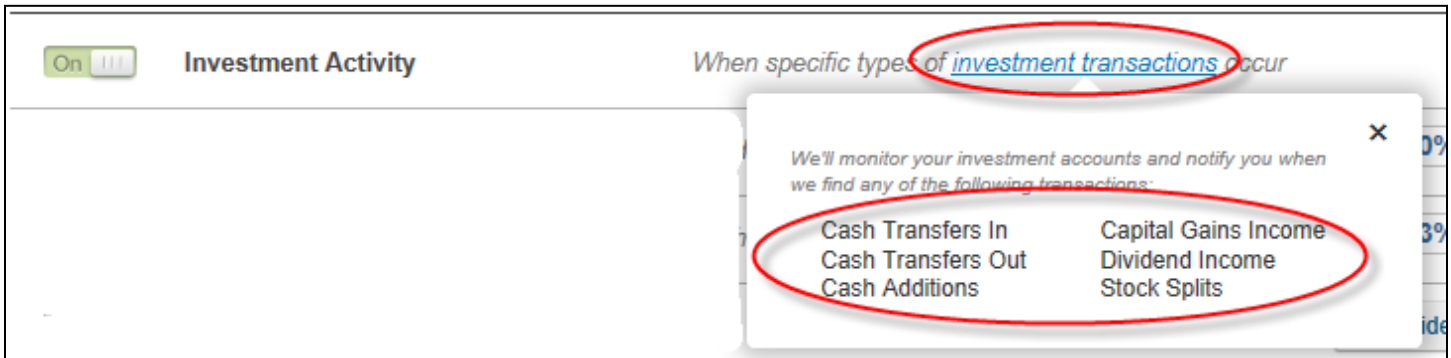

FICA Maximum Approaching When you're nearing your FICA max withholding for the year

The government stops deducting FICA* taxes for the year once a person has earned a certain amount of income (around $114,000). If you're in that income bracket, we'll estimate when you'll reach your max and remind you to look out for the increase in take home pay.

Also known as Social Security taxes*

6. Investments consist of the following alerts which can be set:

a. Investment Activity - Turn on this alert to be notified when specific investment transactions occur. Click the blue hyperlink to see the types of investment transactions monitored.

- b. Unbalanced Portfolio – Turn this alert on to see when your portfolio is out of balance by a given percentage.

- c. Concentrated Position – Turn on this alert and enter a percentage to be notified when a stock or bond makes up more than this much of your portfolio.

- d. Excess Cash Position – Turn on this alert and enter a percentage to be notified when your cash makes up more than this much of your portfolio.

On Excess Cash Position When cash makes up more than this much of your portfolio:

 Too much cash in your portfolio can mean you're missing out on investment returns. We'll let you know when your portfolio contains more cash than you want.

The ideal amount of cash varies based on your financial goals and age, but a good rule of thumb is 33% of your portfolio before retirement and 50% during retirement.

- e. Security Prices – Click the Add button to get dropdown fields where you can enter security symbols you want to track.

Security Prices Monitor the prices of stocks and mutual funds

- 7. Reminders consist of the following alerts which can be set:

- a. End of Year Planning – This alert fires once a year on November 1st and contains a text reminder.

On End of Year Planning Annual financial housekeeping tips

End of Year Planning Reminder

Is your financial house in order?

The end of the year is approaching and it's a great time to take steps that can help improve your personal finances. Some items to consider:

- If you're not retired, contribute as much as you can afford to your IRA.
- If you or your spouse is 70½ or older, Required Minimum Distributions (RMD) must be taken before Dec 31. Otherwise you could incur an additional 50% penalty tax.
- Make charitable contributions that you want to be able to claim as a deduction on this year's tax forms.
- Consider selling investments that are in a capital loss position to offset any realized gains during the year.
- Compare this year's spending against your budget and make any necessary adjustments for next year.
- Do you expect to earn more next year? Consider putting all or part of your expected increase into savings.
- Check your asset allocation and make any necessary changes.
- Take some time to define your family's financial goals and concerns for next year:
 - Do you want to save more for retirement? Or for college?
 - Is a particular budget category consistently over-budget?
 - Do you expect any unusually large bills next year such as college tuition or a new roof?

Taking the time to address these items now can help make next year a success.
